I sometimes get the following error when uploading to Soundcloud: "An unexpected server error occurred... please try again later... sorry for the inconvenience" I think that it's a problem with the connection to the Soundcloud servers, but I don't know exactly how to solve this problem. What I tried? First, I looked for an open port in the address bar in Firefox, and I found nothing. So, I went to the website php.net and looked at the documentation of the function socket_connect, and found that it works with the string protocol:// So, I tried to change the return url in soundcloud to this: "" This solved it, but does not really explain it. PHP Debuggin I added the following php ini setting to see if there is a problem with php: error_reporting(0); // disable error reporting. ini_set("display_errors", "on"); // display error messages. I added it at the top of your script, before any output (so, you'll have to add it in each time). I have the following informations: When there is an error, and when there is no error, the debuggin stops in the same place in your script (in this case, on the "echo" of the "To:". This is the problem, it gets in the message when there is a problem. When the error is reported (error_reporting(0);), there is no information. It stops in the first line of your script, before the error, so there is no error. Manual Just a small manual (with a wrong url), for those who want to debug it. So, anyone knows how to solve this problem? Thanks in advance. A: When using the SoundCloud API and the PHP API client, you can use the following code to provide information about the problem // error information $error_details = array(); if (!empty($error_message)) { //$error_message $error_details['error'] = $error_message; } else { // [type] if (!empty($error_message)) {
